McKenna must solve a murder when a bridesmaid-zilla drops dead during a wedding she planned.

Wedding planner Kelsey McKenna is just a few hours away from wrapping up her latest job: a destination wedding in San Miguel de Allende. But just as the priest is about to pronounce them husband and wife, one of the bridesmaids collapses into a floral arrangement. Worst of all, Kelsey discovers that she hasn't just fainted- she's dead. Mrs. Abernathy demands that Kelsey fix the matter, and although she's pretty sure investigating a murder isn't in her contract, crossing the well-connected mother of the bride could be a career-killer. Before she can leave Mexico and get back to planning weddings, Kelsey must deal with stubborn detectives, another dead body, and a rekindled romance in this smart, funny and cozy debut.

AUTHOR

Marla Cooper was astonished when, at the age of eighteen, she realized people could actually get paid to write things. So she switched her major from business to advertising and began her writing career as an advertising copywriter. After moving to San Francisco, she became a freelancer so that she could take advantage of perks like working in her pajamas, and, now, she writes a little bit of everything, including travel writing and the occasional haiku. Marla Cooper is a pseudonym.
