Superdreadnought 1

by C. H. Gideon, Tim Marquitz, Craig Martelle, Michael Anderle

Read by Phil Thron

Alone and unafraid. Sometimes you prevent war by hunting down your enemies.

Integrated with a superdreadnought, the artificial intelligence known as Reynolds takes his ship across the universe in search of the elusive Kurtherians. While on his journey, he comes to a revelation: he's better off in the company of living creatures.

He needs a crew. He needs information. And he needs to continue his search and destroy mission.

Needing a crew and getting a crew are two completely different things. Reynolds is out of his element as he tries to reach out and make friends. Through it all, he has his vessel, the superdreadnought, the most powerful warship in the galaxy.

Or so he believes.

AUTHOR

C. H. Gideon is the pseudonym of an experienced author who has more than twenty years of experience in the Marine Corps, a legal education, and a former career consulting for businesses. He believes that what makes fiction in any genre compelling are in-depth characters dealing with real-world issues. Through a bizarre series of events, he ended up in Fairbanks, Alaska, where he and his wife enjoy watching the northern lights from their driveway.

READ BY

Phil Thron is a classically trained actor and audiobook narrator who has worked on stage, television, and behind the microphone for several decades. When not recording in his home studio, he enjoys playing tennis, watching movies, and spending time with his wife and kids. He currently resides in New Jersey.
