Scorpion's Fury

by C. H. Gideon, Caleb Wachter, Craig Martelle

Read by Patrick Lawlor

Victory or death! Fight to survive.

Who kicks off the battle? Cannon fodder. Soften up the enemy. The Metal Legion. Old mechs crewed by former prisoners with nowhere else to go. They bear the brunt of the pain.

Never fight fair when you're fighting for your life is the motto of the Metal Legion. They don't want to die, so they fight to win.

The mechs stand tall or crawl or run or scamper. A dozen different designs held together by rough welds and sheer willpower. But the soldiers within, like Xi Bao, refuse to give up.

Taking her armor underground, she finds the enemy in numbers far greater than she was told. Knee deep in the war, her crew gives their old mech new vigor for one last chance at glory.

Metal Legion—climb the ramp and come along for the ride. Fire the mains and enjoy the company of the crew as they live for each other and as they fight for all humanity. Join the Metal Legion today.

AUTHOR

C. H. Gideon is the pseudonym of an experienced author who has more than twenty years of experience in the Marine Corps, a legal education, and a former career consulting for businesses. He believes that what makes fiction in any genre compelling are in-depth characters dealing with real-world issues. Through a bizarre series of events, he ended up in Fairbanks, Alaska, where he and his wife enjoy watching the northern lights from their driveway.
